A THING OF BEAUTY.
The heroes are not all six feet tall.
Big souls may dwell in bodies small.
The heart that melts with sympathy
For the poor and the weak, whose'er it be,
Is a thing of beauty, whether it shine
In a man of forty or a lad of nine.

RELIEVED THE CONGESTION.

The excursion over the L. & N.
from this city to Frankfort Saturday was by long odds the largest weekday crowd that has left this city since the Sunday school excursion to Cincinnati several years ago. It simply got Agent Ellis' goat, so to speak. But he was equal to the emergency. He had ordered two extra cars for this train, but the crowd could have filled five easily, and Saturday morning he ordered three more coaches to be sent on the northbound train, and when it met the excursion train these cars were transferred to it, thus relieving the congestion. And then there was room for one more passenger.

Mr. William Minton was the guest Saturday and Sunday of relatives at Covington.

COUNTY COURT.

The case of settling with the sheriff for collecting special school taxes was tried in the County Court Friday.
County Attorney W. H. Rees filed exceptions to the sheriff's settlement as made with the Fiscal Court at its February term. The court sustained Attorney Rees as to the matter of taking all commissions from the general claim fund and overruled the exceptions as to the allowance by the Fiscal Court of 10 per cent on the first $1,000 and 4 per cent on the balance of the special school taxes. The case will be appealed to the Mason
Circuit Court and from the Circuit Court to the Court of Appeals for a decision at the earliest possible moment.

The Court of Appeals recently rendered a decision in reference to the payment of the sheriff, and unless it reverses that decision Mason county will soon be badly in need of money for its general claim fund.

NEWLYWEDS RETURN.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Carr have arrived home after an enjoyable honey-moon trip in the West.

Mr. Hugh F. Shannon, formerly of Maysville, who has been a resident of Chicago for twenty-three years, is visiting relatives and friends here.

CARRANZA IS DEFIANT

Mexico City, March 13.—General Carranza last night issued a manifesto to the nation declaring that under no circumstances would the Mexican government grant the right to the United States to violate Mexican territory by sending in armed forces in pursuit of Villa without consent and the reciprocal privilege being first obtained and admitted.
Word was sent to the confidential agent of the Mexican government in Washington to make immediate representations to this effect.

FUNSTON MAY SEND TROOPS

INTO MEXICO AT MANY POINTS—
UNEASINESS IN BOR-DER TOWNS.

General is Determined To Be Fully Prepared When the Expedition Starts.

San Antonio, Tex., March 13.—It became known yesterday that the plans for the campaign against Francisco Villa have been affected by the border situation elsewhere than at Columbus, N. M. The situation, it is said, is so important as to have hindered rapid concentration of the punitive expedition that will go after the perpetrator of the Columbus outrage.
Great excitement has been noted, it is authoritatively stated, in the Carranza garrisons at Nogales, opposite the Arizona border town of that name, and at Piedras Negras, which fronts
Eagle Pass, Tex., from across the Rio Grande.

"We do not ourselves know just when the expedition that will search for Villa will start into Mexico, although, of course, it will be soon.
"It will go forward just as soon as a sufficient force with an adequate commissary can be organized. It will not be held back, however, until all the troops now ordered to the border have arrived."

This was the statement of Major General Frederick Funston, while he was outlining at Fort Sam Houston, southern department headquarters, as closely as military expediency would permit, plans that will be directed against the Mexican leader. He added:
"There is no use going at this thing half-cooked. The task ahead of us will be a long and anxious one."

RUSH ORDER FOR ARMS AND AM- MUNITIONS PLACED BY UNCLE SAM.

Philadelphia, March 13.—Four of the largest munition plans in this section are working on rush orders for steel shells and rifles for the United States, according to statements made here by officials of these companies, who added that they are in a position to supply the further needs of this country without interfering with their foreign orders.

The Remington Arms Company, it was stated, is making two million rifles for the army; the Eddystone Ammunition Corporation, 2,500,000 shells, and the Baldwin Locomotive Company, 1,000,000 steel forgings, while the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company is also working on large orders for the United States in addition to its foreign contracts.

Mary Dewees Poyntz as "Effie," and Mr. Henry Shea, Jr., as "Silas Mar-

DEPLORABLE ACCIDENT

Brother Shoots His Brother and the Wound Is a Serious One—
Brought To Hayswood
For Treatment.

A deplorable accident happened
Sunday at Covedale, in Lewis county, that may end fatally.

C. C. Taylor and an elder brother were in their yard shooting at a target on a fence with a rifle.

Their little 10-year-old brother, Jay Taylor, was playing nearby and in running about did not notice the shooting going on and when the little fellow ran over to where the other brothers were he started between them and the target just as one of them shot.

The bullet struck the lad near the shoulder blade and inflicted an ugly and serious wound.

Dr. Woodson Taulbee of this city, was sent for, and when he saw how badly the child was wounded, rushed him to this city to Hayswood Hospital, arriving here Sunday afternoon on C. & O. train No. 17 at 5 o'clock.

One of his brothers accompanied him and will remain here until developments in the case warrant his return home.

He was reported as having spent a restless night at the hospital.

HAS IT COME TO THIS?

Frankfort, Ky., March 13.—Governor Stanley received a telegraph message Friday from Congressman Campbell Cantrill at Washington, saying the Kentucky delegation had met and prepared a protest against submission of the suffrage amendment.
He said the Democratic Congressman and Senator James are of one mind that the adoption of the suffrage amendment would make Kentucky overwhelmingly Republican.

DEATH OF JOHN DRYDEN.

Mr. John Dryden suddenly dropped dead at his home on Forest avenue at 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning. He had been suffering with rheumatism for several days and it seemed to have settled in his left side.

Just before arising Sunday morning he told his wife that he felt well.
After arising and dressing partially, he stepped into the sitting room to finish dressing, when he fell to the floor dead.

Mr. Dryden was a member of Ringgold Lodge No. 27, I. O. O. F., and a member of the local Carpenters' Union, and for the last twenty-eight years had been a member of the Forest Avenue M. E. church.

He was born in this county fifty-five years ago and lived all his life in this county and Maysville.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Misses Carrie and Elsie, and one son, Earl. Mr. Robert Dryden of Colcord, W. Va., a brother, and two sisters, Mrs. Julia Breeze and Mrs.
Julia Service of this city, also survive.

The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Forest Avenue M. E. church.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER.

The most seething arraignment of a President of the United States ever delivered, is the general verdict on the remarkably able review of the Wilson administration delivered by ex-Senator Elihu Root at the opening of the New York state convention. And hardly had the echo of Mr. Root's words died away when Colonel Harvey, Mr. Wilson's friend, comes out with the announcement that Elihu Root is "the foremost statesman now living in this country or in the world." But President Wilson is not without his apologists—such as they are. Samuel Untemeyer, the New York lawyer who figured so odoriferously in the Guggenheim divorce case, and in certain financial transactions, has come out with a reply to Mr. Root which is also a panegyric of Mr. Wilson. Were not Mr. Wilson so completely enmeshed in his own self-complacency, even his severest critic would be inclined to extend sympathy to a human being so defended. For to the uninitiated be it known, in his concepts and his practices Sam Untemeyer is the complete antithesis of Elihu Root. They are as far apart as Beelzebub and the Prince of Peace.

EARLY FRUITS AND VEGETABLES.

The enormous amounts of early fruits and vegetables shipped from the southern climates into northern markets are one sign of growing wealth and luxury in this country. It is a business that increases with every spring.

The eating of fresh food out of season was once considered a costly and wasteful luxury. It is so today for families of moderate incomes. But facilities for transportation have so improved and southern farming has so expanded, that such products are often much cheaper than one could expect.

People to whom money comes easily can hardly spend it in any more wholesome way. The fresh tang of new garden products stimulates the human body. And the business employs a small army of people in healthful open air employments and brings prosperity to many rural districts.

The valor of the Turks who fled from Erzerum is not fully demonstrated, but they don't need to run any farther to convince the world absolutely of their discretion.

Some people want to run Colonel Goethals for President, but it is feared from his experience in the Culebra Cut that he would not be able to stop the landslides.

An Important Announcement To Our Friends and Customers

Now that we are located in our new store at No. 39 West Second street, five doors above our former location, we have decided, after very careful consideration and our capital being limited, to make a change in our business from a credit to a strictly cash system.

In doing this we will be in a position to sell you shoes for less money. This you and we fully realize is not possible under the credit system, as loss from bad accounts (which is considerable, even with the best of care) must be made good by those who pay. There is no getting around this. We know that a large majority of you are already of this opinion and will be glad to welcome this step in the right direction.

In conclusion, would say this system will apply to every one who buys at our store, as any deviation from this rule would soon put us back in the old rut.

Thanking you for all past favors, we are Respectfully yours,

THE PURIFICATION OF MULFERA.

MULFERA STATION, N. S. W., was not only an uttermost end of the earth, but an exceedingly loose end, and that again in more senses than one. There were no ladies on Mulfera, and this wrought inevitable deterioration in the young men who made a bachelors' barracks of the homestead. Not that they ever turned it into the perfect pandemonium you might suppose, but it was unnecessary either to wear a collar or to repress an oath at table, and this sort of disregard does not usually stop at the elementary decencies. It is true that on Mulfera the bark of the bachelors was something worse than his bite and his tongue no fair criterion to the rest of him. Nevertheless the place became a byword, even in the back blocks, and when at last the good Bishop Methuen had the hardihood to include it in an episcopal itinerary there were admirers of that dear divine who roundly condemned his folly and enemies who no longer denied his heroism.

The lord bishop of the back blocks had at that time been a twelvemonth or more in charge of what he himself described playfully as his "oceanic sea." But his long neglect of Mulfera was due less to its remoteness than to the notorious fact that they wanted no adjectival and alliterative bishops there. An obvious way of repulse happened to be open to the blaspheming squatter, though there is no other instance of its employment. On these up country visitations the bishop was dependent for his mobility upon the horseflesh of his hospitable hosts. Thus it became the custom to send to fetch him from one station to another, and as a rule the owner or the manager came himself, with four horses and the big trap. The manager of Mulfera said his horses had something else to do, and his neighbors backed him up with some discreet encouragement on their own account. It was felt that a slur would be left upon the whole district if his lordship actually met with the only sort of reception which was predicted for him on Mulfera. Bishop Methuen, however, was one of the last men on earth to shirk a plague spot, and on this one warning was eventually received that the bishop and his chaplain would arrive on horseback the following Sunday morning to conduct divine service if quite convenient at 11 o'clock.

The language of the manager was something inconceivable upon receipt of this cool advice. He was a man named Carmichael, and quite a different type from the neighbors who held up horny hands when the bishop decided on his raid. Carmichael was not "a native of this colony" or of the next, but he was a man of brains. Worst of all, he had promised very differently as a boy. A younger man who had been at school with him, having come out for his health, traveled some hundreds of miles to see Carmichael, whose conversation struck him absolutely dumb. "He was captain of our house," the visitor explained to Carmichael's subordinates, "and you haven't any dash in dormitory—not even dash!"

In appearance this redoubtable person was chiefly remarkable for the intellectual cast of his still occasionally clean shaven countenance, and for his double eyeglasses, or, rather, the way he wore them. They were very strong and very common, without any rims, and Carmichael bought them by the box. He would not wear them with a cord, and in the heat they were continually slipping off his nose. When they did not slip right off they hung at such an angle that Carmichael had to throw his whole body and head backward in order to see anything through them except the ground. And when they fell some one else had to find them while Carmichael cursed, for his naked eye was as blind as a bat's.

"Let's go mustering on Sunday," suggested the overseer, "every blessed man. Let him find the whole place deserted, homestead and hut."

"Or let's get blind for the occasion," was the bookkeeper's idea, "every mother's son."

"That would do," agreed the overseer, "if we got just blind enough. And we might get the blacks from Poonce Creek to come and join the dance."

The overseer was a dapper Victorian with a golden mustache twisted rakishly up and down at either end respectively, like an overturned letter S. He lived up to the name of Smart. The bookkeeper was a servile echo with a character and a face of putty. He had once perpetrated an opprobrious ode to the overseer and had answered to the name of Chaucer ever since.

Carmichael leaned back to look from one of these worthies to the other, and his spectacled eyes flamed with mordant scorn.

"I suppose you think you're funny, you fellows," said he, and without the oath which was a sign of his good will except when he lost his temper with the sheep. "If so, I wish you'd get outside to entertain each other. Since the fellow's coming we shall have to let him come, and the thing is how to choke him off ever coming again without open insult, which I won't allow. A service of some sort we shall have to have this once."

"I'm on to guy it," declared the indiscreet Chaucer.

"If you do I'll rehearse the men," the overseer promised.

"You idiots!" thundered Carmichael, whose temper was as short as his sight. "Can't you see I weaken on the prospect as much as the two of you stuck together? But the beggar's certain to be a public school and varsity man, and I won't have him treated as though he's been dragged up in one of these God forsaken colonies!"

Now—most properly—you cannot talk like this in the bush unless you are also capable of confirming the insult with your fists. But Carmichael could, and he was much too blind to fight without his glasses. He was, in fact, the same strenuous character who had set his dogmatic face against the most harmless expellives in dormitory at school, and set it successfully, because Carmichael was a mighty man, whose influence was not to be withstood. His standard alone was changed. Or he was playing on the other side. Yet he had brought a prayer book with him to the back blocks. And he was seen studying it on the eve of the episcopal descent.

"He may have his say," observed Carmichael darkly, "and then I'll have mine."

"Going to heckle him?" inquired Smart, in nasal voice full of hope and of encouragement.

"Not at the function, you fool!" replied Carmichael sweetly. "But when it's all over I should like to take him on about the Athanasian creed and the Thirty-nine articles." Only both substantives were qualified by the epithet of the country, for Carmichael had put himself in excellent temper for the day of battle.

That day dawned blood red and beautiful, but in a little it was a blinding blue from pole to pole, and the thermometer in the veranda reached three figures before breakfast. It was a hot wind day, and even Carmichael's subordinates pitied Dr. Methuen and his chaplain, who were riding from the south in the teeth of that Promethean blast.

Not long after breakfast the two horsemen jogged into view, ambling over the sand hills whose red hot edge met a shimmering sky some little distance beyond the station pines. Both wore pith helmets and fluttering buff coats, but both had hot black legs, the pair in gaiters being remarkable for their length.

"They can ride a bit, too; I'm bothered if they can't!" exclaimed the overseer in considerable astonishment.

"And do you suppose, my good fool," inquired Carmichael, with the usual

The Men Tramped In and Filled the Chairs, Forms, Tin Trunks and Packing Cases.

unregenerate embroidery—"do you in your innocence suppose that's an accomplishment confined to these precious provinces?"

"They're as brown as my sugar," said the keeper of books and stores.

"The bishop looks as though he'd been out here all his life."

Carmichael did not quarrel with this observation of his overseer, but colorless eyebrows were raised above the cheap glasses as he stepped into the yard to shake hands with the visitors. The bearded bishop returned his greeting in a grave silence. The chaplain, on the other hand, seemed the victim of a nervous volubility.

"His lordship feels the heat so much more than I do, who have had so many years of it, and to tell you the truth, he is still a little hurt at not being met for the first time since he has been out here."

"Then why did he come?" demanded Carmichael bluntly. "I never asked him, did I?"

"No, no. But—ah, well! We won't go into it," said the chaplain. "I am glad to see your preparations, Mr. Carmichael. That I consider very magnanimous in you, under the circumstances, and so will his lordship when he has had a rest. You won't mind his retiring until it's time for the little service, Mr. Carmichael?"

"Not I," retorted Carmichael promptly. But the worst paddock on Mulfera in its worst season was not more dry than the manager's tone.

Shortly before 11 the bell was rung which roused the men on week day mornings, and they began trooping over from their hut, while the trio foregathered on the veranda as before. The open end was the one looking east, but the sun was too near the zenith to enter many inches, and with equal thoroughness and tact Carmichael had placed the table, the water bag and the tumbler at the open end. They were all that he could do in the way of pulpit, desk and lectern.

The men tramped in and filled the chairs, forms, tin trunks, and packing cases which had been pressed into the service of this makeshift sanctuary. The trio sat in front. The bell ceased, the finger entering and taking his place. There was some delay, if not some hitch. Then came the chaplain with an anxious face.

"His lordship wishes to know if all hands are here," he whispered across the desk.

Carmichael looked behind him for several seconds. "Every man Jack," he replied. "And damn his lordship's cheek!" he added for his equals' benefit as the chaplain disappeared.

"Run over, that chaplain," whispered Chaucer, in the guarded manner of one whose frequent portion is the snub brutal.

"How so?" inquired Carmichael, with a duly withering glance.

Chaucer told in whispers of a word

FEEBLE OLD PEOPLE

Are Told How To Regain Strength and Vigor.

Mrs. James A. Smith of Oakland, Cal., says:—"My husband, now eighty-two years of age, is a retired Veteran of the Navy, and he has been strengthened and benefited a great deal by Vinol. My long experience with first class physicians and nurses enables me to discriminate in medicines, and I must say Vinol has proved its wonderful qualities to relieve and strengthen the whole system under very trying circumstances. When the blood is thin and needs strengthening, and to build up a depleted system, nothing equals Vinol."

Nothing equals Vinol to strengthen old people because the tonic iron, the medicinal properties of fresh cods' livers, beef peptone and mild native wine which it contains are the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissue and create strength.

We ask every feeble, aged person in Maysville to try a bottle of Vinol, with the understanding that we will return their money if it fails.

which he had overheard through the weatherboard wall of the room in which the bishop had sought repose. It was, in fact, the monosyllable of which Carmichael had just made use. He, however, was the first to heap distance beyond the station pines, which he laughed to scorn with as much of his usual arrogance as could be assumed below the breast.

"If you heard it at all," said Carmichael, "which I don't for a moment believe, you heard it in the strictly Biblical sense. You can't be expected to know what that is, Chaucer, but as a matter of fact, it means lost and done for, like our noble selves. And it was probably applied to us, if there's the least truth in what you say."

"Truth!" he began, but was not suffered to add another word.

"Shut up!" snarled Carmichael.

"Can't you hear them coming?" And the tramp of the shooting boots, which Dr. Methuen was still new chum enough to wear, followed by the chaplain's lighter step, drew noisily nearer upon the unseen part of the veranda that encircled the whole house.

"Stand up, you cripples!" cried Carmichael over his shoulder in a stage whisper. And they all came to their feet as the two ecclesiastics appeared behind the table at the open end of the tabernacle.

Carmichael felt inclined to disperse the congregation on the spot.

There was the bishop still in his gaiters and his yellow dust coat. Even the chaplain had not taken the trouble to don his surplice. So anything was good enough for Mulfera. Carmichael had lunged forward with a jutting jaw when an authoritative voice rang out across the table:

"Sit down!"

The bishop had not opened his hairy mouth. It was the smart young chaplain who spoke. And all obeyed except Carmichael.

"I beg your lordship's pardon," he was beginning, with sarcastic emphasis, when the manager of Mulfera was cut as short as he was himself in the habit of cutting his inferiors.

"If you will kindly sit down," cried the chaplain, "like everybody else I shall at once explain the apparent irregularity upon which you were doubtless about to comment."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

SIGNS OF DANGER

That Should Be Heeded By Maysville People.

There's serious danger in neglecting any weakness of the kidneys. The warning that Nature gives should not be overlooked. If troubled by too frequent passage of the kidney secretions; burning or scalding; if the secretions are highly colored and contain sediment when left standing—if you have backache, too, with frequent headaches and dizziness, make up your mind that your kidneys are affected and begin using some reliable kidney remedy. Deaths from kidney disease have increased in the United States alone, 72 per cent in the last 20 years. The risk is too great—you can't afford to delay. Maysville people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Can you ask for better proof of merit than the statement of this Maysville resident?

W. F. Lynch, 127 West Third St., Maysville, says: "My kidneys were weak and the passages of the kidney secretions were scanty and painful. Having used Doan's Kidney Pills before, I again got a box and they quickly restored my kidneys to a normal condition."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Lynch had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

GREAT ADDITIONS TO GARY STEEL PLANTS.

Gary, Ind., March 10.—Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, announces that the steel industries here are to be enlarged by the construction of a $25,000,000 tube plant, which will give work to from 12,000 to 15,000 men. The Illinois Steel Company, a United States Steel subsidiary, is spending $15,000,000 in increasing its blast furnace capacity here and it has just completed a $1,000,000 benzol plant. The American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, another subsidiary, has begun construction also of a tin plate plant of sixty mills, which will cost $4,000,000 and will employ 3,000 men. The various additions call for a total outlay of $45,000,000.

HOPE FOR TRADE

Of the United States Lies In Organizing Industries Like Europe, Says Hurley.

New York, March 11.—Edward N. Hurley, vice chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, speaking before the New York Trade Press Association, said in part:

"Industrial preparedness, foreign trade and more efficient methods of manufacture seem to be the most important questions before the American people today."

"Mobilizing of American resources means simply organizing to achieve a common purpose. It does not mean expansion."

"I hope, now that our business has become normal and our factories are running on full time, that our manufacturers will place capacity ahead of expansion. I hope that, instead of rushing to build additions to their plants, they will ascertain that their present equipment has reached the maximum of day work, and then develop the night shift, so that every piece of machinery will be working to its limit. There has been over anxiety to enlarge our industrial plants before we have worked our present equipment to its capacity. Enlargement frequently leads to overproduction. If we can stop this overproduction we will have a surplus of money to invest in foreign countries, instead of having millions tied up in plants running on short time."

"There is no question more important to ponder at this time, in considering the betterment of business conditions, than that of foreign trade. Conservation is the handmaiden of prosperity so far as our foreign trade is concerned. The owners of our vast natural resources are the trustees of the American people. When they sell their raw products at ridiculously low prices they are violating their trust, for ruinous waste brings nothing in exchange."

"A combination of German metal buyers controls the world market for copper, lead, zinc and other metals. It has subsidiary companies and owns mines in many countries, including the United States. It has compelled our producers to sell copper to foreign buyers at lower prices than to our home users, being able to do this because it deals with our producers as individuals and plays one against the other."

"A combination of English brokers controls the price of coal supplied to foreign vessels bunkering at our ports, and compels our coal miners to sell to those foreign interests at lower figures than are charged our own manufacturers."

"When conditions arise to threaten waste of the natural resources of our commercial rivals, prompt remedial measures are undertaken. In Germany the government has encouraged a combination of the potash miners, as a result of which the unbridled competition formerly existing has been curbed, definite prices have been fixed on the product sold to foreign countries, and this great natural resource has been conserved in the interest of the German people. We have an opportunity to do for our resources the same that Germany has done for her resources. Under normal conditions we send 1,000 tons of phosphate rock to Germany every day of the year. Do we follow the wisdom of Germany and give her a dose of her own medicine by combining our producers, charging the prices we ought to and conserving our limited supply of this vital natural resource? No. We are selling the best we have as fast as we can at Europe's price."

"When we buy abroad we are at the mercy of the foreign seller and when we sell abroad we are at the mercy of the foreign buyer. The reason is that the European industries are organized scientifically to capture foreign trade and get all there is out of it. Our method of disposing of our natural products, containing our valuable raw materials and constituting the chief wealth of our country, should be stopped by the adoption of some practical, reasonable business method."

"Our buyers, seeking materials in foreign countries who formerly had a free competitive field from which to receive bids, now find that the great manufacturing industries have been formed into combinations; and business has to be done with a central selling agency. But when the foreign buyer seeks material in the United States he finds an unsystematized market, with scores or hundreds of individuals ruthlessly cutting prices in bidding against one another. If the American manufacturer and the merchant are forced to purchase their material abroad at a higher price because of the elimination of the old competitive system abroad, is it fair that our business men should be subjected to the ruinous features of the old system in foreign trade?"

WOMEN IN THE NEWS

Chicago.—The Women's Trust Company, all officers of which, except general counsel and manager, are women, has been incorporated under Arizona laws with a capital of one and a half millions, to do a general trust business.

Boise, Idaho.—It is interesting to recall that Idaho, which has enjoyed woman suffrage for almost twenty years, even in its early days recognized woman industrially, having permitted a woman to design the state seal. And her ideal of the new state of Idaho resulted in a design of a woman and a man standing together and upholding the shield of the state. The woman is dressed symbolically in those robes; in her hand she holds a staff of freedom and the scales of justice. The man represents a miner, as the mining industry first drew settlers to this state. Miss Emma Edwards, the designer, was a Californian, and while visiting here suggested her ideas of a design for the state seal.

Chicago.—This year the women of Illinois get their first chance to vote for a President, and the registration of women is beyond all estimates. The women started voting in the aldermanic primaries in Chicago, and will keep right on voting until the "big event" in November. There is only one voting day that they will miss, and that comes about through an oversight. The Illinois women can not vote in the Presidential primaries in April, although they can vote for the Presidential electors later on. Chicago women will vote this year for ten municipal court judges, two members of the board of assessors, three university trustees, one alderman, ward, state and Senatorial committees and minor officials.

Philadelphia.—One of the most talked-of women in Philadelphia is Mrs. Jane D. Ripplin. She is the city's social physician, and tells people how they can be "happy though married." She has been complimented by Colonel Roosevelt for her work. The solving of other peoples' domestic difficulties as a big, tactful job. Last year she handled nearly 17,000 cases, all dealing with some phase of domestic unhappiness. Her formal title is supervisor of the probation departments of the domestic relations, criminal and misdemeanor branches of the municipal court, and is the friend and willing servant of a great city's unmarried mothers, its runaway girls and boys, and its hundreds of unhappy women whose husbands have left them without support. One of the best methods, she says, is to bring the dissatisfied parties together in her office and let them "scrub it out."

Boston.—Four hundred college girls from all parts of the world who are attending New England institutions are taking part in the fiftieth anniversary of the first Young Women's Christian Association in this city. The associations in all parts of the world are holding similar observances, which came to a grand climax Thursday on the actual anniversary. The parent organization, founded in Boston on March 3, 1866, is still a lively feature of Boston life. Its principal celebration is a pageant depicting the early efforts, the development of the present and the hopes for the future. In the

SUGGESTIONS TO SICK WOMEN

How Many Are Restored To Health.

First.—Almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful periods, displacements, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

Second.—The medicine most successful in relieving female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates and strengthens the organism; it overcomes disease.

For forty years it has been making women strong and well, relieving backache, nervousness, ulceration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pains. It has also proved invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the change of life.

Third.—The great number of unsolicited testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, are proof of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, in the treatment of female ills.

Fourth.—Every ailing woman in the United States is cordially invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

"Scenes of Progress," five decades of development are shown in the cast "The Girl of 1866" is depicted by Miss Juanita Tichenor of Chatanooga, and "The Girl of 1916" by Miss Katherine Wells of Chelsea, Mass. The parent organization of the 1,000 associations throughout the country, is headed by Mrs. Benjamin Tenney.

The Drug, Caffeine, In Coffee Is A Habit-Forming Agent

Bulletin 393, U. S. Department of Agriculture, entitled "Habit-Forming Agents," referring to caffeine and other ingredients used in the manufacture of certain soft drinks, headache mixtures, etc., says:

"Until recently it was claimed by some that these agents were harmless and did not belong to the habit-forming group. Later investigations, however, clearly show that this position is unwarranted."

The average cup of coffee contains about 2½ grains of caffeine. Mothers give it to their children and wives give it to their husbands—unconscious of the harm coffee does to health.

When the nerves cry out, or indigestion, biliousness, headache or heart flutter begin to trouble, it's time to look to the cause.

An easy, sure way out of coffee troubles is to quit coffee, and use

MISS BARBOUR COMPLIMENTED.

(Cincinnati Enquirer.)
Miss Elizabeth Barbour, the talented Kentucky pianist, who has been studying under Marcian Thalberg at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music during the last two years, was heard in a pianoforte recital of broad scope last Wednesday evening. Her playing was musically and she indicated the regard for detail of expression and execution of the mature pianist. Rhythmically strong and tonally beautiful was her presentation of the Schumann Fantasia, C-major (in three parts), a work seldom heard here, and the same qualities proved characteristic of the Nicode Variations and Fugue, Op. 78. She gave her Chopin group with imagination and fluent charm, closing her program convincingly with a broad, virtuosic conception of the Wagner-Liszt "Liebestod" and the Rigoletto Paraphrase, which she gave with brilliant sweep. She was enthusiastically applauded during the evening.

Miss Elizabeth Barbour is a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John Barbour of this city.

LEWIS COUNTY OFFICIALS ARE INDICTED.

Vanceburg, Ky., March 13.—Indictment against Judge J. M. Lee, County Judge of Lewis county; County Surveyor Ivan Sanders, and Ed Rand, a road contractor, were returned by the grand jury in its final report.

The report of the jury charged that Judge Lee and Sanders had entered into contracts to build county roads while holding county offices, which is illegal. The indictment against Rand alleges fraudulent road building contracts, through which it is charged, he obtained several thousand dollars of the county's money illegally.

Twenty indictments were returned against the Adams Express Company, charging unlawfully delivering shipments of alcoholic liquors to parties other than consignees.

Mrs. Powell Owens, Miss Margaret McIntyre and Miss Katherine Case of the county, have returned home after being the guests of Mrs. J. L. McDowell since Friday.

Mr. H. S. Howland leaves today on a three-weeks' trip through the northwest in the interest of the Ohio Valley Pulley Works.

SIX-CLUB LEAGUE

Decided On For Ohio State Circuit At Meeting In Cincinnati Sunday.

Directors of the Ohio State League met at the Hotel Haylin at Cincinnati Sunday afternoon and decided to continue with a six-club organization. Seven applications for franchises were received. A committee was appointed to decide between Frankfort, Ky., and Chillicothe, O. This committee will report within the next five days. It was pointed out that, geographically and according to population, Chillicothe is the best town. A $1,000 guarantee fund must be placed with Joe P. Carr, president of the league, by March 22. The question of each club paying its yearly dues to the league in advance, was discussed, but final action was deferred until the next meeting. Mr. Carr was authorized to draft a schedule of 120 games, divided into two seasons, the first ending July 6 and the other Labor Day. The winners of the divisions will play a post season series. The following towns were represented: Charleston, Watt Powell; Huntington, C. L. Barrett; Portsmouth, John H. DeArmond and W. N. Gableman; Lexington, Hogan Vancey; Maysville, Thomas Russell and Claude Watkins.

DELIGHTFUL RECEPTION.

Mrs. Samuel Milton Hall entertained with a very delightful reception Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. The entertainment was given in honor of Mrs. Hall's daughter, formerly Miss Sallie Milton Hall, who was recently married to Mr. Andrew Carr of this city. The attractive home was profusely decorated with pink and white carnations and narcissus, and in the dining room pink and white roses tied with broad pink satin ribbon formed the picturesque centerpiece. The color "motif" was further accentuated in the delicious refreshments, and tall white candles and soft music lent their glamour to the delightful occasion. In the receiving line were Mrs. Hall, the lovely bride, Mrs. Andrew Carr, Mrs. R. A. Carr and Mrs. Hart.

Mrs. Walter Worthington and Miss Ruth Hall presided most graciously at the punch bowl, and Maysville's most charming maids and matrons assisted in the reception of the throng of guests. The occasion was especially happy, as it gave her many friends an opportunity to wish the beautiful daughter of the house all happiness in the new life she has so recently entered. Even the clerk of the weather was propitious and lent especially golden sunshine for the occasion.

"ALWAYS IN THE WAY," PICTURIZATION OF THE SONG CLASSIC, FEATURING MARY MILES MINTER, AT PASTIME.

At the Pastime today, afternoon and evening, the fascinating screen personality, Mary Miles Minter, will appear in a picturization of the song classic, "Always In the Way."

Nearly every one remembers the famous old song and its sweet melody, written by Charles K. Harris. This picture is taken from the song classic and presents the new "Little Mary" of the screen in the leading role.

Mary Miles Minter is said to be in the same class with Mary Pickford and Marguerite Clark, just as dainty and just as sweet. The juvenile part that she assumes in this picture is especially adapted to her.

The ladies and children should be particularly interested in this picture for it is a story that will appeal to them. It is a Metro production, the kind noted for supreme quality. A special matinee will be given this afternoon at 3:45 for the benefit of the school children. We would like for every mother and child in Maysville to see this picture.

FEATURE WEEK AT WASHINGTON OPERA HOUSE.

Every afternoon and evening this week the Washington Theater will have a Paramount program, starting with the usual Paramount Travel Series and News Pictures tonight. The popular serial, "The Strange Case of Mary Page," will also be shown tonight.

Saturday night large crowds witnessed "The Prince and the Pauper," one of Mark Twain's immortal works. Marguerite Clark was splendidly adapted to the dual role she assumed and is growing more popular with each production in which she appears.

WHEN AN ELEPHANT CROSSES A BRIDGE

Did you ever see an Elephant cross a Bridge? First of all he carefully puts out one foot and tests it. He assures himself that the Bridge is all right and will bear his weight.

In our business dealings we are as careful as the Elephant. We are slow, cautious, careful. We take no chances. Before we go into anything we carefully test it—and make sure that it is all right first of all.

If a careful, cautious Bank appeals to you, may we have your business?

BUYING WOOL.

C. D. Asbury is extensively engaged in the purchase of wool this season. within the last few days he has bought 10,000 pounds of wool of William Wagers of Richmond, at 37 cents. He also bought a large lot of wool of parties in Boone county. Mr. Asbury's purchases to date amount to something like 80,000 pounds, for which he paid an average of about 35 cents. His purchases for the season will probably reach over 100,000 pounds.

NEW SEA FIGHTERS BURN OIL.

Washington, March 13.—The three new battleships which are being turned over to the United States this month and next are all oil burners. Instead of colliers, with their clumsy methods of coaling ships, the new vessels will be accompanied by tankers, from which the supply can be pumped. The three new battleships are the Nevada, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania. Their armament equals that of the best ships of foreign navies.

ROBERT MANTELL AT THE GEM.

Tonight will mark the local screen debut of Robert B. Mantell, the noted legitimate actor, who appears at the Gem Theater in a Fox feature entitled "The Blindness of Devotion." He will be ably supported by Genevieve Hamper. The Gem is enjoying good patronage and is offering some excellent photoplays for Maysville's discerning movie fans.

SUFFRAGE BEATEN.

By a vote of forty-six to forty-five the Combs woman's suffrage bill, which passed the Senate several days ago, was effectively put to sleep for the rest of the session by the House Friday afternoon. All day long advocates of the measure had been attempting to make a motion that the bill be drawn from the committee on constitutional amendments and read into the calendar, but it was not until 4:30 that Representative W. C. G. Hobbs of Lexington, was recognized for that purpose. The death of the measure was witnessed by Mrs. Desha Breckinridge of Lexington, and a half hundred or more other women who have been at Frankfort at various times working on the bill. Representative Purnell of this county, voted in favor of the bill.
